DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Otake et al. (JP 03-203311) in view of Ishiwama (JP 2002-015950).

Otake et al. disclose an electric double layer capacitor comprising: a capacitor cell including a bag-shaped soft case in which a plurality of positive electrode and negative electrodes, and a separator are received and laminated together with an electrolytic solution; a hard case for thermal radiation in which a plurality of the capacitor cells are received and laminated to be closely contacted with each other.

Otake et al. disclose the claimed invention except for a thermal conductor interposed between the hard case and the capacitor cells.

Ishiwama teaches the use of radiation fins disposed on a capacitor cell, wherein the fins are a thermal conductor.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form heat radiation fins on the each capacitor cell, since such a modification would dissipate the heat generated from the capacitor element.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
5. Claims 6-10 are allowed.
6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art does not teach or fairly suggest (taken in combination with the other claimed features) an electric double layer capacitor comprising a belt-shaped radiating fin is disposed in a rim of the soft case so as to be extended therefrom (claims 2-5); and an electric double layer capacitor comprising a control box receiving a control substrate to control charge and discharge of the capacitor cells, and a capacitor unit formed of connecting the control body to the capacitor module, wherein the hard case is exposed to an outside of the control box (claims 6-10)

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

5,530,618 -- multiple capacitors mounted in an box.

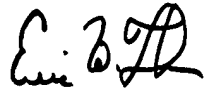

6,456,484 -- 6,552,894 -- discloses an electric double layer capacitor having a housing that transfers heat.
